REAL ESTATE DEBT & EQUITY

AF Advisory offers its employees volunteering opportunities throughout the year and supports them making a valuable contribution to society.

Last year we decided to volunteer for a charity that supports children at risk of dropping out of formal education, Hackney Pirates. Hackney is one of the poorest boroughs in London and as we believe that education is one of the most important “door openers” in an ever-changing world we decided not only to support the organisation with a considerable donation but also to take our whole team to their office.

With our expertise in different fields, we could provide professional support to their organisation and help them optimise their processes. In turn, we got an insight into the daily work of the Hackney Pirates as well as the great importance of their contribution.

What they are and what they do:

The Hackney Pirates is an enterprising charity working to develop the literacy, confidence and perseverance of young people in Hackney, helping their young clients to succeed both in school and in the world.

Knowing that young people sometimes need some extra help to achieve their full potential, the Hackney Pirates believe that providing support outside of school can really help young people to perform better in the classroom, while also developing their broader skills. Moreover, they make learning a great adventure!

Working together with local schools, families and volunteers, the Hackney Pirates deliver unique real-world learning projects in a special designed unconventional environment.

The Hackney Pirates primarily work with young people aged 9-12 whose teachers think they would benefit from some extra support. Young people receive help on their reading through targeted reading support programmes. They also work on unique creative publishing projects, where young people work with professionals to write their own books, CDs and websites and now even their own cinema film.
